Election and sushi in the union council

It was time for the union council to meet again, and time for an exciting election! Before the election there was a couple of propositions and one motion on the agenda. The motion that was voted through makes it possible for small sections to choose more than one alternate to the union council. This was welcomed by several people from the small sections.

The nomination committee presented many good candidates during the election. The union council had many tricky questions for which the applicants replied well to. There were questions about leadership, what they think will be most fun about the board position, and other more critical questions. Anna Ivert was chosen to the president of the union and Richard Robertsson was chosen to vice president. Malin Nilsson was chosen to internal auditor. Two editors for Techna were chosen, Emma Grubbström is now the editor in chief and Alice Lissmatz is the deputy editor in chief. William Eulau was chosen consistory member. Måns Bengtsson was chosen to be a member of the union board. There are still four remaining board positions in the union and one position as internal auditor which were not filled.

All council members who participated were gifted a foodora coupon. I don't know if everyone ordered something, but I think I saw a box of sushi during the meeting. I hope it tasted well!
